

LEOPOLD AND LOEB GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE FOR FRANKS MURDER

Youth "Thrill Slayers" are Also Sentenced to Terms of 99 Years For Kidnapping

DECISION BY JUDGE CAVERLY

Sentences Constitute Victory For Defense, Whose Sole Fear Was Death by Hanging

STATE CAN NOT APPEAL

Within His Province to Decline to Impose Death Sentence on Immature Persons, He Says

(By United Press)

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 10.—Sheriff Hoffman announced that Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb would not be taken to Joliet prison until late today due to the delay in securing the commitment papers.

Criminal Court Building, Chicago, Sept. 10.—The Leopold-Loeb murder drama was concluded with startling suddenness today when within the space of 15 minutes Justice John R. Caverly sentenced the millionaire youths to life imprisonment for murdering Bobby Franks and to 99 years each for kidnaping their little victim.

The state has no appeal from the court's decision.

The sentence constituted a complete victory for the defense, whose sole fear was a sentence of death by hanging, as the offenses of murder and kidnaping are capital crimes in Illinois.

Nathan Leopold Jr., and Richard Loeb, the youthful slayers, walked into court today with faint smiles on their faces, apparently confident of life and walked out with smiles that were patently strained.

Tears of joy trickled down the grief-lined face of Nathan Leopold, Sr. For several moments he sat slumped in his chair, unable to move.

Foreman Leopold, brother of Nathan, and Allen Loeb, brother of Richard, rushed forward to shake the hands of the youths but the guards rushed their charges from the court room a half minute after sentence was pronounced.

Justice Caverly made rapid work of the opinion and sentences. He pointed out in his opinion that he believed it was within his province to decline to impose the death penalty on persons not of mature years.

He said he believed if the boys had been in their normal minds, they would not have committed the crime.

Waving the formality of calling the youths before him, Justice Caverly plunged hurriedly into the sentence.

Looking directly at Nathan, the judge said:

"It is the sentence of this court that you, Nathan Leopold, be confined to the penitentiary at Joliet for the period of your natural life for the murder of Robert Franks."

Both prisoners were balanced on the edge of their chairs. Nathan's face was almost expressionless as he heard the word that saved him from death.

Justice Caverly then swung his gaze to Loeb.

"It is the sentence of this court, that you, Richard Loeb, be confined to the penitentiary at Joliet for the period of your natural life for the murder of Robert Franks."

Both boys relaxed at this but their eyes were still fixed intensely on the judge.

Then Justice Caverly, with only a change of words to fit his kidnaping sentence, sentenced each of them to the penitentiary for 99 years on the charge of kidnaping for ransom.

This was the signal for the youths to settle back with wan smiles.

No motions were made by either side and Nathan and Richard were whisked from the room.

"Do you defendants have anything to say in this case?" Justice Caverly asked, when the boys were led before him.

The boys half rose and nodded in the negative.

Then the judge started reading his opinion. Justice Caverly said because of the great interest that this case had drawn, both in Chicago and (Continued on Page Three)

Steaks Smothered in Onions, Boys' Order

Criminal court room, Chicago, Sept. 10.—"Order us up two thick steaks smothered with onions and all the side dishes as you can get and chocolate eclairs, as it may be our last good meal," Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb cried to Sheriff Hoffman when the latter visited them in their cell a few moments after sentence was imposed.

The youths were happy and made no efforts to hide their feelings. They laughed and chatted and shook hands with each other.

Former Soldiers of 139th Field Artillery Urged to Attend Meeting

Final details and plans for the annual convention of the 139th Field Artillery, which will be held in Rushville October 4 and 5, will be taken up tonight, and the committees and ex-soldiers affiliated with the 139th, are urged to attend the meeting tonight.

The session will be held at the Legion headquarters, and as the convention is less than a month away, it is expected that the final details will be worked out tonight, and the two day convention program outlined. The meeting will be called at 7:30 tonight.

CHANEY GRANTED A WRIT OF REPLEVIN

Court Proceedings Started by Creditor Hinders Sale by Receiver For George Billings

SAYS HE OWNS THE PROPERTY

Plaintiff Alleges he Holds First Mortgage and That He Was Not Made Party to Action

A suit filed today against the receivership for George Billings, Union township farmer, will delay the public auction of some of the goods, scheduled for Thursday, as the action filed by Carlton Chaney, charges that the goods and chattels belong to him, and are being detained by Willard H. Amos, the receiver.

Mr. Amos, the receiver, stated today that the litigation would not prevent the sale from being held, and that only the articles contained in the action would be withheld, unless some agreement could be reached before the sale.

The plaintiff was granted a writ of replevin, and the creditors involved in the settlement of the estate will find a delay caused by the action, on the goods affected.

The suit filed by Mr. Chaney who lives near Glenwood, alleges that he holds a first mortgage on property valued at $3,000, and that when the receiver advertised the sale of the property, he was not made a party of the action, and he now seeks possession of it to satisfy the mortgage. He also demands $500 damage for the unlawful detention of the property.

In the list itemized and for which he was granted the writ of attachment today, includes farming machinery and all tools associated with the farming business, 1,400 bushels of yellow corn, 30 head of Poland China brook sows, 12 dairy cows and numerous other items that were advertised to be sold at public auction tomorrow.

Billings, the first named defendant, was adjudged a bankrupt, following his disappearance several months ago, leaving a large number of creditors, and with a small amount of assets.

Ada Williams Stevens has filed suit in court against Chester O. Williams, demanding judgment for $4,500 on a (Continued on Page Six)

WHAT IS THE DEFENSE TEST?

ANSWERED IN 200 WORDS

By G. C. REINIGER, Executive Secretary

A physical demonstration of the new army of the United States as it existed at the present time.

A test of the plans already made by the War Department for expanding to full strength our skeleton army created by the National Defense Act, which was passed by congress in 1920. (The regular army, national guard, and organized reserve are all skeleton organizations in peace time.)

An opportunity for well informed speakers to explain to the public what the National Defense policy of the United States is—in other words, to tell how congress planned to provide for our country's protection when they passed the Defense act, and further, to tell the people of each community what they will be called on to contribute as a community in men, services, and material to do their part in defending their country is so far as this can be foreseen at this time.

An opportunity for patriotic citizens and patriotic societies to show their support of the plans of the United States government, to protect and defend the people of the United States whenever the need for such protection and defense arises. These plans now being put to the first test were prepared by the war department in carrying out the instructions given by congress in the National Defense Act.

PROCLAMATION

Whereas September 12, 1924 has been designated as National Defense Test Day, for the purpose of affording the American people an opportunity of voluntarily demonstrating their loyalty, and publicly expressing their willingness to give their services and resources in defense of the country in case of emergency, and preparations having been made for a patriotic demonstration of the County's defensive resources at Memorial Park on that date,

Therefore, I, Walter Thomas, Mayor of the City of Rushville invite all loyal citizens of Rush county to assemble in the City of Rushville, Indiana, on Friday, September 12, 1924, to join in the program of patriotic demonstrations arranged for that day, to demonstrate to the world that while the citizens of this county desire only peace, yet that they are willing and ever ready to offer themselves in their country's service to secure that peace; I request that the schools in the city be closed during the afternoon of that day, and that the citizens of Rushville display the flag on homes, public buildings and business houses, and that all business houses and public buildings be closed between the hours of 11:30 a. m. and 4:00 p. m., and that all citizens of Rushville within the appropriate age attest their loyalty by enrolling for twenty-four hour period of September 12, 1924.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal of the City of Rushville this 10th day of September, 1924.

WALTER R. THOMAS,
Mayor of City of Rushville, Ind.

RUN DOWN BY AUTO AND LEFT LEG BROKEN

Robert Burroughs, Manager of Local Creamery, Hit by Machine Driven by Jesse Stevens

WAS STANDING IN THE STREET

Robert Burroughs, manager of the Beatrice Creamery company in East First street, was run down by a machine Monday afternoon at the corner of First and Main street, and as a result sustained a broken left leg.

Mr. Burroughs was standing along the curb in front of Denny Ryan's pool room in First street talking with another man, when a machine driven by Jesse Stevens of New Salem, coming from the west in First street, struck him, in making the turn south into Main street. He was knocked down and the machine passed over his left leg.

The two bones between the knee and ankle were broken and he is suffering considerably as a result of the injury. He is confined to his home at 826 North Willow street.

DETROIT MAJORITY PUTS COUZENS AHEAD

Michigan Senator Takes Lead in Primary Voting as Returns From City Begin to Come In

BEHIND OUTSIDE DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 10.—Senator James Couzens, candidate for reelection, slid into the lead today on the strength of an overwhelming majority for him in Detroit and Wayne county.

With two-thirds of the state precincts in, Couzens had a plurality of nearly 20,000 over his principal opponent, Judge Arthur Tuttle in the Republican primaries.

Couzens plurality was 18,967. Tuttle has a lead of 24,000 outside of Detroit.

Gillette Is Nominated

Boston, Sept. 10.—Frederick H. Gillette, speaker of the house of representatives and a member of congress for more than 20 years, was given the Republican nomination as United States senator by the voters of Massachusetts at the primaries held yesterday, according to incomplete returns today.

Returns from 191 cities and towns out of 355, Boston included gave Gillette 38,803 against 23,362 for Louis A. Coolidge, his nearest competitor and 18,676 for Frederick W. Dallinger.

SUCCESSOR WILL BE NAMED

J. T. Arbuckle Will Retire as Governor of Kiwanis Clubs

A successor to J. T. Arbuckle of this city as governor of the Kiwanis clubs of Indiana, will be elected at the annual state convention now in session at Evansville. Mr. Arbuckle has held the office for one year.

He and Omer Trusler, the state secretary of Kiwanis, and Robert E. Mansfield, a district trustee, are attending the convention at Evansville. Marion is a strong contestant for the convention next year and it was expected that city would be selected.

Civil War Veterans Asked To Take Part Defense Day

All Civil War veterans and members of the G. A. R. were urged today to take part in the Defense Test Day program that will be held here Friday. W. A. Caldwell, commander of the local post, is asking all veterans to meet at the court house during the morning program, and they will then go to the park for the picnic.

ASKS SCHOOLS TO OBSERVE THE DAY

B. D. Farthing, County Superintendent Sends Out Suggested Program to be Followed

FOR ALL TOWNSHIP SCHOOLS

Singing of Patriotic Songs and Reading Patriotic Addresses by Pupils Urged

All of the schools in the county were given instructions today by B. D. Farthing, county school superintendent, asking that they observe the national Defense Test Day Friday in some manner, and a suggested program was sent to each school.

The suggested program opens with devotional exercises by some minister of the community, followed by the display of the flag, and the flag salute given in unison by the pupils. For the next number, some pupil is asked to read a paper on "America" and the school should join in by singing "America."

Some citizen of the community or teacher should give an address, or talk on Defense Day, and explain its purpose. The next suggestion for the program is a reading of an essay to be prepared by some pupil on "On President", and another essay on the "Star Spangled Banner".

The next number on the suggested program is a reading of James Whitcomb Riley's poem, "Old Glory" and also the recital of Lincoln's Gettysburg address, by some pupil to be selected by the teacher.

Mr. Farthing, in his communication to the teachers, also suggests the song, "America, the Beautiful", be the school, and as a closing feature have the principal or teacher give a few appropriate remarks.

In the suggested program, the essay on the "Star Spangled Banner", "America" and "On President" are contained in printed form so that the pupil appointed for the program part can have it as a copy.

The printed instructions also give the complete flag salute as adopted by the schools of the country, and this exercise is a beautiful thing when carried out according to the instructions, Mr. Farthing says.

The county board of education decided to have the Defense Day exercises carried out in the schools, rather than dismiss for a half day, and it is believed that the messages can be carried to the pupils better in their own schools, than in combining the efforts with all rural schools.

WOMEN IN PRINCE OF WALES PARTY ROBBED

Theft of Fortune in Jewels While They Attended Social Function Revealed Today

ESTIMATED WORTH $250,000

(By United Press)

New York, Sept. 10.—Theft of a fortune in jewels of two members of the Prince of Wales party on Long Island, was revealed today.

Lady Mountbatten and Mrs. Richard Norton, both of whom accompanied the Prince and his party to this country, were the victims.

Estimates of the value of the jewels stolen ran as high as $250,000.

Detectives investigating the robbery are today convinced the theft was an inside affair.

The jewels were stolen Monday night apparently about the time members of the household were attending a party for the prince of Wales but the case was called to the attention of police only today.

Mayor Thomas Issues Proclamation Urging All Loyal Citizens to Take Part Defense Day

ENDORSED BY THE LEGION

Rush Post Requests All Ex-Service Men to March in Procession to Park at 11:30

APPEAL FOR DECORATING

Committee and Mayor Request Residences, Business Houses and Public Buildings be Decorated

In a proclamation issued today, Mayor Walter R. Thomas called on all of the loyal citizens of Rush county to join in the National Defense Test Day observance in Rushville Friday, which was proclaimed by President Coolidge as a day to be set aside to give people an opportunity of voluntarily demonstrating their loyalty and expressing publicly their willingness to give their services and resources in defense of the country in case of emergency.

Rush post 150 of the American Legion also called on all ex-service men of the county, regardless of whether they belong to the Legion, to be present at the services on the west court house lawn Friday morning at eleven o'clock and be prepared to march in the procession to Memorial park, where a community dinner will be served and exercises will be held in the afternoon.

The committee on decorations for Defense Test Day, following a meeting Tuesday evening, issued an appeal to all loyal citizens to decorate their homes and their places of business.

"Every home should have at least one flag displayed on Friday," a member of the committee said.

The committee also appealed to the people of Rushville for flags and bunting to be used in decorating the coliseum at Memorial park. Persons who wish to provide decorations are asked to notify by telephone either Mrs. Charles Moore, Mrs. O. P. Vamsly or Earl Osborne. All of the members of this committee are requested to be at the coliseum Thursday afternoon or night to assist in the work of decorating the coliseum.

Rush post of the Legion endorsed the Defense Test Day program at a meeting Tuesday night and agreed to issue the appeal to all ex-service men to participate in the day's ceremonies and march in the parade from the court house to the park.

DRIVES AUTOMOBILE INTO INTERURBAN

M. L. Pratt of Sexton And His Wife Not Hurt When Machine Collides With Rear Trucks

TRIES TO AVOID A SMASH-UP

A Chevrolet touring car, owned and driven by M. L. Pratt of Sexton was badly damaged this morning shortly before eleven o'clock, when he drove the machine into a passing interurban car at the I. & C. crossing in Perkins street.

Mr. and Mrs. Pratt were in the machine at the time of the accident, but neither was hurt. The machine was going north in Perkins street, and the car was going east to the car barns. The car had about cleared the crossing, when the machine crashed into the rear trucks.

The automobile was badly disabled. The radiator, hood, front springs and wheels were broken. Mr. Pratt attempted to avoid a collision by turning the machine to the east, but there was not room enough between the curb and the car to prevent a smash-up.

The traction car was in charge of motorman Abernathy and conductor Russell, both of this city, and was due here at 10:43, terminating the run from Indianapolis.

throughout the land he felt he should give his reasons for the sentences he was about to impose. He pointed out first that the case was somewhat different from the pleas of guilty because no understanding was made with the state's attorney before the pleas were entered.

"The work of the state's attorney was in no way lessened by the pleas of guilty," the justice said.

Justice Caverly pointed out that inasmuch as a plea of guilty had been entered, he was compelled to hear evidence in aggravation and mitigation of the offense.

Justice Caverly said that he was satisfied from the evidence that no abuse was practiced on the body of the victim. He said he could find no "mitigating circumstances" in connection with the crime. The murder, he said, was carefully planned over a long period of time and a callous act. The judge pointed out that the crimes of kidnapping and murder are punishable by death or life imprisonment or 14 years.

At 8:30 an hour before they are brought face to face with their fate, the youths visited the barber shop for a final grooming.

A circle of steel ringed the criminal court building and jail. Mounted, motorcycle and foot police, all armed, some with riot guns, patrolled the streets for two blocks around the structure. None but those with the magic red card of admittance was permitted to pierce the circle.

Justice John R. Caverly, the chunky little old man who pronounced the sentence, was escorted from his hotel to the courts building by rifle squads under the personal direction of Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes. Hughes sat with Justice Caverly in one police car while rifle squads swept along in front and rear.

Justice Caverly ordered the heavy police guards for the building and for himself because he feared cranks might try to do him bodily injury or attempt to bomb the building.

Betting on the possible sentence shifted from 5 to 4 that the youths would be sentenced to hang to 5 to 4 that they would get life imprisonment.

Clarence Darrow, chief attorney said he was confident the youths would be sentenced to life in prison, the sentence he was fighting for.

State's Attorney Crowe who directed the prosecution, was confident the court would impose the extreme penalty.

Justice Caverly guarded his decision with extreme care, and he refused to state beforehand whether the prisoners would be sentenced separately or simultaneously.

The disappearance of Robert Franks, 14-year-old schoolboy, was first brought to light on the evening of May 21, 1924, when Jacob Franks, Robert's father, reported to police that his son had not returned home from school.

Later that same evening Franks received a telephone call from a man who said he was "George Johnson," instructing him how to proceed in finding little Robert. The next morning's mail brought a letter which gave more complete instructions. Both the telephone call and the letter assured Franks that his son was safe and was being held for the $10,000 which his kidnappers were demanding.

On the morning of May 22—about 18 hours after Robert disappeared—a railroad worker found the nude body of a boy, partly covered with water, lying under a railroad culvert near the southern city limits. Police were at once notified and Franks was called to the morgue. He identified the body as that of Robert. Robert had been beaten to death with a chisel.

An intensive search for the slayer was started at once. Two people said they saw a man loitering around the Harvard private school which Robert attended on the afternoon he disappeared. This man was said to have been driving up and down the streets in an automobile.

The wealth and social position of the Franks family—Franks is said to be many times a millionaire—gave the case great notoriety.

Several instructors at the Harvard school were held in custody for a number of days on suspicion that they knew of or were connected with the murder.

Not until a week after the boy was murdered were Leopold and Loeb, both sons of millionaires and both precocious college graduates, arrested and held in connection with the crime. Leopold was traced by means of a pair of horn rimmed spectacles which were found near the lonely culvert.

Leopold and Loeb stoutly denied any knowledge of the crime. Leopold said he must have dropped the glasses while on a bird hunt in that vicinity. He said he was a student of ornithology and had often visited the culvert. Both boys gave apparently substantial alibis. They told of driving in Leopold's automobile on the afternoon and evening of the murder, of "picking up" two girls, and of dining and drinking at a notorious cabaret.

Then Sven Englund, the Leopold chauffeur, was called in. He told State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe the machine named by the boys was in the Leopold garage on the day of the crime.

Confronted with their shattered alibi, Loeb was the first to break. He made a full confession, implicating Leopold. Leopold quite calmly made a similar confession when he was told his companion had broken down.

The amazing confessions of the two young intellectuals, in which they admitted there was no motive for the crime except "the adventure of it," were given attaches of the state's attorney's office as dawn was breaking on the morning of May 31. They told of the boy's desire to commit the "perfect crime," of their longing for a thrill, of their careful plans, of their search for a victim, and finally of how they enticed Robert Franks into a rented automobile, beat him over the head with a chisel, took the body to a remote place on the south side, undressed it, poured acid on the face to prevent identification, hid the body under the culvert, and then addressed the ransom letter to the victim's father.

everyone to join in the program of patriotic demonstration arranged to demonstrate to the world that "while the citizens of this country desire only peace, yet they are willing and ever ready to offer themselves in their country's service to secure that peace."

The proclamation requests that all of the schools of the city be closed during the afternoon and that the citizens of Rushville display the flag on homes, public buildings and business houses. The mayor also requests that business be suspended from 11:30 a. m. until 4 p. m. and that all citizens within the appropriate age attest their loyalty by enrolling for the 24 hour period.

Arrangements have been made for the schools to close at 11 a. m. so that the children may march to the court house in time for the preliminary exercises. They will then join in the procession to the park, where a dinner will be served cafeteria style, at 12:15.

Tents have been obtained to provide shelter for the dining tables. Everyone is urged to catch the spirit of the event and join in making the community dinner the success that previous dinners of this character have been.

The afternoon program will begin at two o'clock in the coliseum and the principal address will be delivered by Fred C. Gause of Indianapolis, judge of the Indiana supreme court and former judge of the Henry circuit court at Newcastle.

TO HONOR GEN. TRABUE

The Knights of Pythias lodge is planning a picnic at Memorial park for Sunday, September 21, and a meeting will be held Thursday night at the lodge room to perfect the arrangements. The picnic is to honor Samuel L. Trabue who was recently appointed major general, commanding the Indian rank, United States and Canada.

Get the Big Value in the Fence Post Field

Steel fence posts are no longer all alike. The RED TOP Double strength Studded Tee has set a new standard. It is a stronger post of longer life, easier and cheaper to set and easier and cheaper to fasten fencing to.

Greater Strength—due to adding more metal in a reinforcing rib (see illustration) and also due to the fact that there isn't a single hole punched in the post either for staples or anchor plate. No rivets required to attach anchor plate. (See illustration.)

Firmer in Ground—the RED TOP Anchor Plate is heavier and stronger than ever.

Longer Service—the new aluminum metallic finish and solid post make it longer lived.

Better looking fences—the aluminum metallic finish gives the post a neat, trim appearance.

Easier, cheaper setting—One man can set 200 to 300 posts per day.

More Efficient Fence Fastening—RED TOP Handy Fasteners makes it possible for one man to attach fencing to posts. And fastener holds fencing tighter.

Come in and see this better post. Handle it. Inspect it. See how the new One Man Post Driver works. Don't buy a fence post until you do this.

Profits From Experience

The only course open for Rush county is to go back to the state fair next year with one or more exhibits and make an even greater effort than was made this year to carry off the honors.

Although Rush county was fifth in the educational exhibit this year, the showing was exceptionally good, when it is considered that we were showing against veterans who have been going back year after year with an exhibit, not simply with the desire of winning a prize, but for the advertising value of the display to the county.

Counties that have been showing at the fair for several years finished below Rush county, but they were not discouraged and they will be on the job again next year.

This is the only course open to Rush county. Not to try next year would be to lose all of the experience that was gained this year. It might also give some ground for the charge that Rush county people were quitters.

Ten thousand folders advertising Rush county were given out at the booth where the exhibit was on display. Two or three times as many people as received folders passed the Rush county booth and got the impression that Rush county produces more hogs than any other county. The favorable publicity which the county received was worth many times the effort and money expended in making the exhibit.

It's clearly up to Rush county to go back smiling next year, and with the experience gained this year, make a more determined effort to carry off the honors.

Community Success

Success has been defined by a well known authority as the progressive realization of a worthy ideal.

This definition is in terms of individuals, but it can be applied equally as well to a business or a community.

It lays down the fixed principle that success is impossible without the element of a worthy ideal.

Therefore, communities that expect to be successful must have a worthy goal to which the energies of the people are directed.

Rush county can expect to get ahead only by aspiring to achieve an aim that is within its reach, and by following a well defined program of action.

Nothing is impossible if the ideal is worthy and the people are "sold" on what they are attempting to do.

The residents of Rush county can make the county renowned the world around as a swine production center.

They can also make it a community of homes where people really live and where children can be reared to become useful and valuable citizens.

Poor Place For Editors

There is something about life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness in the United States that should have a special appeal for newspaper editors.

In Turkey there is a "prairie law" which permits you to shoot an editor when he annoys you.

A deputy coined the phrase when he calmly described his justification for the slaying of another deputy.

who wrote unkindly of him in his newspaper.

He refused to stand trial and said he would continue to shoot all editors who "write against him."

Now the Constantinople government is planning to pass a law for the protection of editors, and it will not be a "prairie law," if the power of the Turkish press is power more than in name only.

The Law Speaks

The law has spoken and Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb have been sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Robert Franks, 14 years old, in Chicago, May 21, and to ninety-nine years in prison for kidnapping the Franks boy.

The sentence was pronounced by Justice John R. Caverly after attorneys for the defense and state presented evidence in "aggravation and mitigation" of the punishment.

Not every one will agree with the punishment given the youthful slayers, but courts have been set up for passing on the guilt or innocence of violators of the criminal laws, and those who disagree will have to abide by the verdict.

Those who were so convinced that Leopold and Loeb should have been sentenced to die on the gallows would have been the last to have the blood of the two young men on their hands.

The judge considered the evidence and based his decision on his idea of how the best interests of society would be served. It was not affected by the passing whims or prejudices of the moment.

Already the foot ball enthusiasts in the high school are beginning to figure out the dope on the team for this fall. The most enthusiastic booster believes that it will far surpass the eleven of previous years and have great hopes for it. The team will feel the loss of several old men who graduated from the local high school last spring. Probably two young men never graduated from the local high school who made a better record in athletics than Ben Sparks and John Moffett. Especially will their loss be felt on the eleven. Scott Baell was also lost by graduation. But Buford Winslip expects to turn out a good team that will compare favorably with former teams.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Great Britain took one step toward international disarmament when Representative Tom Connolly of Marlin, Tex., arrived in England a few weeks back.

Tom, being Texas born and bred, wears, as an essential part of his wardrobe, a shooting iron. Without a gun he feels only half clothed. A real Texan like Tom will go without collar or tie, even without a shirt, and feel more dressed up than he will without his gun.

Tom tried to do the decent thing, though, when he started for Europe as a member of the House select committee investigating Shipping Board affairs.

Just as he realized a Texas sombrero and boots would make him unduly conspicuous and weren't in good taste for a Congressional tour abroad, he realized, too, that to wear the regulation Texas 45 six shooter was a trifle too much like totting heavy artillery.

Solely out of consideration for the proprieties, then, Tom buys himself a nice, genteel, but businesslike 25 Colt automatic. And he sails away for Europe on the good ship George Washington.

BUT on arriving at Liverpool his majesty's customs representatives shake their heads.

Guns, they opine, even nice gentlemanly guns such as that belonging to the gentleman from Texas, may not be brought ashore. They not only are not in style but they're forbidden.

He can neither wear it ashore nor send it ashore with his luggage. The gentleman may land, but he must leave his gun behind.

After fevered but futile protests, Connolly surrendered. He gave the gun to the ship's purser, with instructions to take it back to the states on the return trip.

Then, blushing, feeling almost like he was clad only in his B. V. D's, Texas Tom Connolly, without his gun in a strange land, descended the gang plank to face the British taxi robbers.

IF labor has a sense of humor, it must be getting one big smile out of the attention it is receiving just now from the presidential camps.

The Labor Day pronouncements by Coolidge, Davis and La Follette were only an incident in the efforts of the presidential aspirants to lure the labor vote.

No one objective in the campaign of any of the candidates looms larger than that of capturing the vote of the nation's workers.

The effort to offset the endorsement of La Follette by the American Federation of Labor, and to make it appear that this endorsement does not carry the approval of the rank and file of labor voters, is recognized as the biggest single undertaking the Republicans and Democrats face as the campaign gets under way.

JUST how seriously this labor situation is regarded may be sensed from the steps taken to provide a pilgrimage of "labor leaders" to the White House on Labor Day.

President Coolidge received this delegation, headed by T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the Shipping Board, and delivered to them a speech setting forth his views on the condition of labor.

Next day Democratic leaders, seeking to block any advantage the Republicans hoped to achieve through the visit of labor representatives to the White House, charged that the "labor leaders" who listened to Coolidge were in large part, like O'Connor, who draws a $12,000 salary from the government now in government employ in various capacities, and that their trip to Washington, instead of being a spontaneous pilgrimage to the Coolidge shrine, had been arranged for by party managers and financed through channels interested in Republican success.

Chairman Butler denies he authorized the "labor" expedition, but the Dems insist that it was, nevertheless, largely paid for out of the national committee's campaign chest.

first election years, but she must feel terribly lonesome on election day in November.

Those who found prosperity just around the corner knew which corner it was.

Lots of folks looking for their share of joy are misled by decoys.

Leopold and Loeb will doubtless serve their life imprisonment for murder and 99 years for kidnapping concurrently.

Those present were the Misses Ruth Atkins, Lois Wilson, Helen Leasure, Lois Trowbridge, Gretchen Ryan, Gertrude Harter, Pervia Zimmerman, Nora Wilson, Ruby Stewart, Luya Apple, Pauline Laughlin, Fern Stewart, Warren Gilson, Reno Huff, Floyd Kirkham, Floyd Hiner, Harold Gilson, Gilbert Divilbiss, Golay Meek, Merrill Reddick, Albert Zimmerman, William Benner and Ralph and George Truitt.

The descendants of Francis and Nancy David Gray held their second reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Manford Johnson, southwest of the city Sunday with every member of the family present. A bountiful pitch-in dinner was enjoyed at the noon hour. The afternoon was spent in social conversation and music. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gray, Mr. and Mrs. John Gray and daughters Mary and Virginia and sons Harold and John, Jr., of Charlottsville, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jones and daughters Margaret and Marian and son Manford of Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gray of Bluffton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker and daughter Betty Gray of Greenfield, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Johnson and daughters Frances, Gertrude, Mary and Georgia and son Alva Jr., of near New Salem. The reunion will be held next year at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gray of Charlottsville.

WORK ON LODGE HOME BEGINS
Addition to be Built and Remodeling Done by Odd Fellows

Active work has been started on the work of erecting an addition to the building at the corner of Morgan and Third streets, and the remodeling of the structure, which was recently purchased by the Odd Fellows lodge and will be converted into a lodge home.

A building will be constructed between the brick building occupied by the Home Restaurant and the office of Dr. D. D. VanOsdel, thus making a solid building facing in Morgan street from Third street south to the alley. The main entrance to the enlarged building will be in Morgan street, where the entrance to Dr. VanOsdel's office is now situated. The upper floors will be used as a lodge room, dining room, reception and regalia rooms. There will be a court to permit a rear exit for tenants on the first floor.

Blackford County Investigators Begin Inquiry Into Death of Boy Killed in Fight

NO INDICTMENT IS EXPECTED

(By United Press)

Hartford City, Ind., Sept. 10—The Blackford county grand jury today began a probe of the killing of Raymond Morris, 18 by William Duff 17, during a fight growing out of hazing of local high school freshmen.

Eight high school boys who participated in the hazing appeared before the grand jury this morning. Nearly 40 more were expected to be called.

The witnesses today included Raymond Stump, who refereed the fight that resulted in Morris' death.

Morris intervened in the hazing when a gang of school boys seized his younger brother and challenged Duff to a fight. Duff knocked Morris down during the struggle and Morris suffered a concussion of the brain which resulted in his death a few hours later.

It is generally believed that no indictment will be returned against Duff.

MOURN SON AS DEAD

Charlevoix, Mich., Sept. 10—Glad their son had escaped the gallows, but mourning him as dead, the parents of Richard Loeb remained in confinement today when news of their son's sentence to life imprisonment for the murder of Robert Franks reached them.

Charlevoix rallied to protest Albert H. Loeb, vice president of Sears-Roebuck and Company from an inquisitive world.

Loeb and his wife have been at their summer home here since early in the season and will not return to Chicago for several weeks, according to friends of the family.

Newspaper correspondents were the only persons to venture near the castle-like Loeb summer home when news of Justice John R. Caverly's "indize and jury" verdict reached Charlevoix. They were told Mr. and Mrs. Loeb would see no one.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brings Joy to Homes by Removing Cause of Trouble

Brocklyn, N.Y.,—"I was working after I got married and the young lady who worked next to me asked me if I had any intentions of having a child. I told her I would be the happiest woman on earth if I could become a mother, but I always had terrible cramps, backaches and headaches. She then told me of a woman she knows who took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for the same troubles and it helped her greatly. I took about a half bottle and found that the following month I did not suffer any pain, so I kept on taking it. I have a wonderful baby boy six months old and he is as strong and fat as any one could wish a baby to be. I still take the Vegetable Compound regularly because I have looked fine all the time and felt fine and my mother told me that was the reason. I will be glad to have you publish my testimonial with my name and address."—Mrs. EDWARD WERBECK, 1824 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y.

and I was afraid that I could never have any more, for I had been told that I never could have a living child for I was not strong enough to carry one. But they were mistaken and I had a nice baby boy and now I have five children. I can't praise your medicine enough. My youngest sister has taken it, too, and praises it."—Mrs. G. L. WISWELL, 43 Mechanics Row, Auburn, Maine.

These cases are similar to many others reported to us. It is well for women to carefully consider such statements and to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. It may bring great joy to your home.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 per cent of these replies are "Yes."

That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This goes to prove that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure-all—can and does do good work. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a medicine for women.

LEOPOLD AND LOEB GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE FOR FRANKS MURDER

Youth "Thrill Slayers" are Also Sentenced to Terms of 99 Years For Kidnaping

DECISION BY JUDGE CAVERLY

Sentences Constitute Victory For Defense, Whose Sole Fear Was Death by Hanging

STATE CAN NOT APPEAL

Within His Province to Decline to Impose Death Sentence on Immature Persons, He Says

(By United Press)

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 10.—Sheriff Hoffman announced that Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb would not be taken to Joliet prison until late today due to the delay in securing the commitment papers.

Criminal Court Building, Chicago, Sept. 10.—The Leopold-Loeb murder drama was concluded with startling suddenness today when within the space of 15 minutes Justice John R. Caverly sentenced the millionaire youths to life imprisonment for murdering Bobby Franks and to 99 years each for kidnaping their little victim.

The state has no appeal from the court's decision.

The sentence constituted a complete victory for the defense, whose sole fear was a sentence of death by hanging, as the offenses of murder and kidnaping are capital crimes in Illinois.

Nathan Leopold Jr., and Richard Loeb, the youthful slayers, walked into court today with faint smiles on their faces, apparently confident of life and walked out with smiles that were patently strained.

Tears of joy trickled down the grief-lined face of Nathan Leopold, Sr. For several moments he sat slumped in his chair, unable to move.

Foreman Leopold, brother of Nathan, and Allen Loeb, brother of Richard, rushed forward to shake the hands of the youths but the guards rushed their charges from the court room a half minute after sentence was pronounced.

Justice Caverly made rapid work of the opinion and sentences. He pointed out in his opinion that he believed it was within his province to decline to impose the death penalty on persons not of mature years.

He said he believed if the boys had been in their normal minds, they would not have committed the crime. Waving the formality of calling the youths before him, Justice Caverly plunged hurriedly into the sentence.

Looking directly at Nathan, the judge said:

"It is the sentence of this court that you, Nathan Leopold, be confined to the penitentiary at Joliet for the period of your natural life for the murder of Robert Franks."

Both prisoners were balanced on the edge of their chairs. Nathan's face was almost expressionless as he heard the word that saved him from death.

Justice Caverly then swung his gaze to Loeb.

"It is the sentence of this court, that you, Richard Loeb, be confined to the penitentiary at Joliet for the period of your natural life for the murder of Robert Franks."

Both boys relaxed at this but their eyes were still fixed intensely on the justice.

Then Justice Caverly, with only a change of words to fit his kidnaping sentence, sentenced each of them to the penitentiary for 99 years on the charge of kidnaping for ransom.

This was the signal for the youths to settle back with wan smiles.

No motions were made by either side and Nathan and Richard were whisked from the room.

"Do you defendants have anything to say in this case?" Justice Caverly asked, when the boys were led before him.

The boys half rose and nodded in the negative.

Then the judge started reading his opinion. Justice Caverly said because of the great interest that this case had drawn, both in Chicago and (Continued on Page Three)

Court Proceedings Started by Creditor Hinder Sale by Receiver For George Billings

SAYS HE OWNS THE PROPERTY

Plaintiff Alleges he Holds First Mortgage and That He Was Not Made Party to Action

A suit filed today against the receivership for George Billings, Union township farmer, will delay the public auction of some of the goods, scheduled for Thursday, as the action filed by Carlton Chaney, charges that the goods and chattels belong to him, and are being detained by Willard H. Amos, the receiver.

Mr. Amos, the receiver, stated today that the litigation would not prevent the sale from being held, and that only the articles contained in the action would be withheld, unless some agreement could be reached before the sale.

The plaintiff was granted a writ of replevin, and the creditors involved in the settlement of the estate will find a delay caused by the action, on the goods affected.

The suit filed by Mr. Chaney who lives near Glenwood, alleges that he holds a first mortgage on property valued at $3,000, and that when the receiver advertised the sale of the property, he was not made a party of the action, and he now seeks possession of it to satisfy the mortgage. He also demands $500 damage for the unlawful detention of the property.

In the list itemized and for which he was granted the writ of attachment today, includes farming machinery and all tools associated with the farming business, 1,400 bushels of yellow corn, 30 head of Poland China brook sows, 12 dairy cows and numerous other items that were advertised to be sold at public auction tomorrow.

Billings, the first named defendant, was adjudged a bankrupt, following his disappearance several months ago, leaving a large number of creditors, and with a small amount of assets.

WHAT IS THE DEFENSE TEST?

ANSWERED IN 200 WORDS

By G. G. REINIGER, Executive Secretary

A physical demonstration of the new army of the United States as it existed at the present time.

A test of the plans already made by the War Department for expanding to full strength our skeleton army created by the National Defense Act, which was passed by congress in 1920. (The regular army, national guard, and organized reserve are all skeleton organizations in peace time.)

An opportunity for well informed speakers to explain to the public what the National Defense policy of the United States is—in other words, to tell how congress planned to provide for our country's protection when they passed the Defense act, and further, to tell the people of each community what they will be called on to contribute as a community in men, services, and material to do their part in defending their country is so far as this can be foreseen at this time.

An opportunity for patriotic citizens and patriotic societies to show their support of the plans of the United States government, to protect and defend the people of the United States whenever the need for such protection and defense arises. These plans now being put to the first test were prepared by the war department in carrying out the instructions given by congress in the National Defense Act.

PROCLAMATION

Whereas September 12, 1924 has been designated as National Defense Test Day, for the purpose of affording the American people an opportunity of voluntarily demonstrating their loyalty, and publicly expressing their willingness to give their services and resources in defense of the country in case of emergency, and preparations having been made for a patriotic demonstration of the County's defensive resources at Memorial Park on that date,

Therefore, I, Walter Thomas, Mayor of the City of Rushville invite all loyal citizens of Rush county to assemble in the City of Rushville, Indiana, on Friday, September 12, 1924, to join in the program of patriotic demonstrations arranged for that day, to demonstrate to the world that while the citizens of this county desire only peace, yet that they are willing and ever ready to offer themselves in their country's service to secure that peace; I request that the schools in the city be closed during the afternoon of that day, and that the citizens of Rushville display the flag on homes, public buildings and business houses, and that all business houses and public buildings be closed between the hours of 11:30 a. m. and 4:00 p. m., and that all citizens of Rushville within the appropriate age attest their loyalty by enrolling for twenty-four hour period of September 12, 1924.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal of the City of Rushville this 10th day of September, 1924.

WALTER R. THOMAS,
Mayor of City of Rushville, Ind.

WAS STANDING IN THE STREET

Robert Burroughs, manager of the Beatrice Creamery company in East First street, was run down by a machine Monday afternoon at the corner of First and Main street, and as a result sustained a broken left leg.

Mr. Burroughs was standing along the curb in front of Denny Ryan's pool room in First street talking with another man, when a machine driven by Jesse Stevens of New Salem, coming from the west in First street, struck him, in making the turn south into Main street. He was knocked down and the machine passed over his left leg.

The two bones between the knee and ankle were broken and he is suffering considerably as a result of the injury. He is confined to his home at 826 North Willow street.

Michigan Senator Takes Lead in Primary Voting as Returns From City Begin to Come In

BEHIND OUTSIDE DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 10.—Senator James Couzens, candidate for reelection, slid into the lead today on the strength of an overwhelming majority for him in Detroit and Wayne county.

With two-thirds of the state precincts in, Couzens had a plurality of nearly 20,000 over his principal opponent, Judge Arthur Tuttle in the Republican primaries.

Couzens plurality was 18,967. Tuttle has a lead of 24,000 outside of Detroit.

Gillette Is Nominated

Boston, Sept. 10.—Frederick H. Gillette, speaker of the house of representatives and a member of congress for more than 20 years, was given the Republican nomination as United States senator by the voters of Massachusetts at the primaries held yesterday, according to incomplete returns today.

Returns from 191 cities and towns out of 353, Boston included gave Gillette 38,803 against 23,362 for Louis A. Coolidge, his nearest competitor and 18,676 for Frederick W. Dallinger.

SUCCESSOR WILL BE NAMED

J. T. Arbuckle Will Retire as Governor of Kiwanis Clubs

A successor to J. T. Arbuckle of this city as governor of the Kiwanis clubs of Indiana, will be elected at the annual state convention now in session at Evansville. Mr. Arbuckle has held the office for one year.

He and Omer Trusler, the state secretary of Kiwanis, and Robert E. Mansfield, a district trustee, are attending the convention at Evansville. Marion is a strong contestant for the convention next year and it was expected that city would be selected.

Civil War Veterans Asked To Take Part Defense Day

All Civil War veterans and members of the G. A. R. were urged today to take part in the Defense Test Day program that will be held here Friday. W. A. Caldwell, commander of the local post, is asking all veterans to meet at the court house during the morning program, and they will then go to the park for the picnic.

ASKS SCHOOLS TO OBSERVE THE DAY

B. D. Farthing, County Superintendent Sends Out Suggested Program to be Followed

FOR ALL TOWNSHIP SCHOOLS

Singing of Patriotic Songs and Reading Patriotic Addresses by Pupils Urged

All of the schools in the county were given instructions today by B. D. Farthing, county school superintendent, asking that they observe the national Defense Test Day Friday in some manner, and a suggested program was sent to each school.

The suggested program opens with devotional exercises by some minister of the community, followed by the display of the flag, and the flag salute given in unison by the pupils. For the next number, some pupil is asked to read a paper on "America" and the school should join in by singing "America."

Some citizen of the community or teacher should give an address or talk on Defense Day, and explain its purpose. The next suggestion for the program is a reading of an essay to be prepared by some pupil on, "Our President", and another essay on the "Star Spangled Banner".

The next number on the suggested program is a reading of James Whitcomb Riley's poem, "Old Glory" and also the recital of Lincoln's Gettysburg address, by some pupil to be selected by the teacher.

Mr. Farthing, in his communication to the teachers, also suggests the song, "America, the Beautiful", by the school, and as a closing feature have the principal or teacher give a few appropriate remarks.

In the suggested program, the essays on the "Star Spangled Banner" "America" and "Our President" are contained in printed form so that the pupil appointed for the program part can have it as a copy.

The printed instructions also give the complete flag salute as adopted by the schools of the country, and this exercise is a beautiful thing when carried out according to the instructions, Mr. Farthing says.

The county board of education decided to have the Defense Day exercises carried out in the schools, rather than dismiss for a half day, and it is believed that the messages can be carried to the pupils better in their own schools, than in combining the efforts with all rural schools.

WOMEN IN PRINCE OF WALES PARTY ROBBED

Theft of Fortune in Jewels While They Attended Social Function Revealed Today

ESTIMATED WORTH $250,000

(By United Press)

New York, Sept. 10.—Theft of a fortune in jewels of two members of the Prince of Wales' party on Long Island, was revealed today.

Early Monday morning Mrs. Richard Norton, both of whom accompanied the Prince and his party to this country, were the victims.

Estimates of the value of the jewels stolen ran as high as $250,000.

Detectives investigating the robbery are today convinced the theft was an inside affair.

The jewels were stolen Monday night apparently about the time members of the household were attending a party for the prince of Wales but the case was called to the attention of police only today.

APPEAL FOR DECORATING

Committee and Mayor Request Residences, Business Houses and Public Buildings be Decorated

In a proclamation issued today, Mayor Walter R. Thomas called on all of the loyal citizens of Rush county to join in the National Defense Test Day observance in Rushville Friday, which was proclaimed by President Coolidge as a day to be set aside to give people an opportunity of voluntarily demonstrating their loyalty and expressing publicly their willingness to give their services and resources in defense of the country in case of emergency.

Rush post 150 of the American Legion also called on all ex-service men of the county, regardless of whether they belong to the Legion, to be present at the services on the west court house lawn Friday morning at eleven o'clock and be prepared to march in the procession to Memorial park, where a community dinner will be served and exercises will be held in the afternoon.

The committee on decorations for Defense Test Day, following a meeting Tuesday evening, issued an appeal to all loyal citizens to decorate their homes and their places of business.

"Every home should have at least one flag displayed on Friday," a member of the committee said.

The committee also appealed to the people of Rushville for flags and bunting to be used in decorating the coliseum at Memorial park. Persons who wish to provide decorations are asked to notify by telephone either Mrs. Charles Moore, Mrs. O. P. Vansly or Earl Osborne. All of the members of this committee are requested to be at the coliseum Thursday afternoon or night to assist in the work of decorating the coliseum.

Rush post of the Legion endorsed the Defense Test Day program at a meeting Tuesday night and agreed to issue the appeal to all ex-service men to participate in the day's ceremonies and march in the parade from the court house to the park.

M. L. Pratt of Sexton And His Wife Not Hurt When Machine Collides With Rear Trucks

TRIES TO AVOID A SMASH-UP

A Chevrolet touring car, owned and driven by M. L. Pratt of Sexton was badly damaged this morning shortly before eleven o'clock, when he drove the machine into a passing interurban car at the I. & C. crossing in Perkins street.

Mr. and Mrs. Pratt were in the machine at the time of the accident, but neither was hurt. The machine was going north in Perkins street, and the car was going east to the car barns. The car had about cleared the crossing, when the machine crashed into the rear trucks.

The automobile was badly disabled. The radiator, hood, front springs and wheels were broken. Mr. Pratt attempted to avoid a collision by turning the machine to the east, but there was not room enough between the curb and the car to prevent a smash-up.

The traction car was in charge of motorman Abernathy and conductor Russell, both of this city, and was due here at 10:43, terminating the run from Indianapolis.

ORANGE

The Social Circle will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Claude Krammes at her home near New Salem.

The Willing Workers will hold an all day meeting Thursday with Mrs. Ida Davis in Orange.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerick Clifford and daughter Violet were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Phillips in Rushville.

Mrs. Grace Kerker and daughter Elizabeth of Indianapolis spent several days last with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gray.

Mrs. Bertha Archey and daughters of Waterloo were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carey Clifford last week.

After operating a sawmill continuously for thirty years, John M. Stone has sold his plant to Ralph Bowen. For the past century there has been a sawmill in this community owned and operated by a Stone. More than one hundred years ago Elias Stone started a mill just east of Orange and it has passed on down the line of descendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Murray were the guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Long at Gings.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Waskom and little son have come from Auburn and have rented the east side of Mrs. Nellie Davis' house, for the school term.

Mrs. James Johnson south of here planned a surprise Sunday for her husband and son Virgil, the occasion being the fourteenth birthday anniversary of Virgil. More than forty relatives were present and a splendorous party was given.

The school opened Monday with the following teachers: Principal, Miss Marian Tittsworth; assistant principal, J. E. Waskom; Latin, Miss Helen Rieff; grades, Mrs. Andrew Moore, Miss Mildred Utter, Primary, Miss Lucille Beck; janitor, W. P. Sipe; hack driver, Mr. Rolland. Miss Mildred Lemmon will teach the Gray-Robinson school and Miss Ruth Hamilton the Johnson school.

Orange is proud of the fact that a large percent of the graduates from high school will take up college work this year: Miss Helen Reed will go back to Bloomington where she will complete her course by January; Don Sine returns to Earlham for his senior year; Este Davis enters Earlham as a freshman and Miss Theresa Dawson has gone to Danville; Theron Rawson will begin a law course in Indiana University at Bloomington; Coleman Phillips, Miss Frances Medd and Miss Bernice Clifford are students now in Richmond Business college.

ARRIVES IN PORTO RICO

Word has been received here by relatives that Miss Helen Frazee has arrived at San Juan, Porto Rico. She will teach in the Ponce schools this year.

Leopold and Loeb Given Life Sentence For Franks Murder

throughout the land he felt he should give his reasons for the sentences he was about to impose. He pointed out first that the case was somewhat different from the pleas of guilty because no understanding was made with the state's attorney before the pleas were entered.

"The work of the state's attorney was in no way lessened by the pleas of guilty," the justice said.

Justice Caverly pointed out that inasmuch as a plea of guilty had been entered, he was compelled to hear evidence in aggravation and mitigation of the offense.

Justice Caverly said that he was satisfied from the evidence that no abuse was practiced on the body of the victim. He said he could find no "mitigating circumstances" in connection with the crime. The murder, he said, was carefully planned over a long period of time and a callous act. The judge pointed out that the crimes of kidnapping and murder are punishable by death or life imprisonment or 14 years.

At 8:30 an hour before they are brought face to face with their fate, the youths visited the barber shop for a final grooming.

A circle of steel ringed the criminal court building and jail. Mounted, motorcycle and foot police, all armed, some with riot guns, patrolled the streets for two blocks around the structure. None but those with the magic red card of admittance was permitted to pierce the circle.

Justice John R. Caverly, the chunky little old man who pronounced the sentence, was escorted from his hotel to the courts building by rifle squads under the personal direction of Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes. Hughes sat with Justice Caverly in one police car while rifle squads swept along in front and rear.

Justice Caverly ordered the heavy police guards for the building and for himself because he feared cranks might try to do him bodily injury or attempt to bomb the building.

Betting on the possible sentence shifted from 5 to 4 that the youths would be sentenced to hang to 5 to 4 that they would get life imprisonment.

Clarence Darrow, chief attorney said he was confident the youths would be sentenced to life in prison, the sentence he was fighting for.

State's Attorney Crowe who directed the prosecution, was confident the court would impose the extreme penalty.

Justice Caverly guarded his decision with extreme care, and he refused to state beforehand whether the prisoners would be sentenced separately or simultaneously.

The disappearance of Robert Franks, 14-year-old schoolboy, was first brought to light on the evening of May 21, 1924, when Jacob Franks, Robert's father, reported to police that his son had not returned home from school.

Later that same evening Franks received a telephone call from a man who said he was "George Johnson," instructing him how to proceed in finding little Robert. The next morning's mail brought a letter which gave more complete instructions. Both the telephone call and the letter assured Franks that his son was safe and was being held for the $10,000 which his kidnappers were demanding.

On the morning of May 22—about 18 hours after Robert disappeared—a railroad worker found the nude body of a boy, partly covered with water, lying under a railroad culvert near the southern city limits. Police were at once notified and Franks was called to the morgue. He identified the body as that of Robert. Robert had been beaten to death with a chisel.

An intensive search for the slayer was started at once. Two people said they saw a man loitering around the Harvard private school which Robert attended on the afternoon he disappeared. This man was said to have been driving up and down the streets in an automobile.

The wealth and social position of the Franks family—Franks is said to be many times a millionaire—gave the case great notoriety.

Several instructors at the Harvard school were held in custody for a number of days on suspicion that they knew of or were connected with the murder.

Not until a week after the boy was murdered were Leopold and Loeb, both sons of millionaires and both precocious college graduates, arrested and held in connection with the crime. Leopold was traced by means of a pair of horn rimmed spectacles which were found near the lonely culvert.

Leopold and Loeb stoutly denied any knowledge of the crime. Leopold said he must have dropped the glasses while on a bird hunt in that vicinity. He said he was a student of ornithology and had often visited the culvert. Both boys gave apparently substantial alibis. They told of driving in Leopold's automobile on the afternoon and evening of the murder, of "picking up" two girls, and of dining and drinking at a notorious cabaret.

Then Sven Englund, the Leopold chauffeur, was called in. He told State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe the machine named by the boys was in the Leopold garage on the day of the crime.

Confronted with their shattered alibi, Loeb was the first to break. He made a full confession, implicating Leopold. Leopold quite calmly made a similar confession when he was told his companion had broken down.

The amazing confessions of the two young intellectuals, in which they admitted there was no motive for the crime except "the adventure of it," were given attaches of the state's attorney's office as dawn was breaking on the morning of May 31. They told of the boy's desire to commit the "perfect crime," of their longing for a thrill, of their careful plans, of their search for a victim, and finally of how they enticed Robert Franks into a rented automobile, beat him over the head with a chisel, took the body to a remote place on the south side, undressed it, poured acid on the face to prevent identification, hid the body under the culvert, and then addressed the ransom letter to the victim's father.

CALLS ON ALL TO JOIN IN THE DAYS EVENTS

everyone to join in the program of patriotic demonstration arranged to demonstrate to the world that "while the citizens of this country desire only peace, yet they are willing and ever ready to offer themselves in their country's service to secure that peace."

The proclamation requests that all of the schools of the city be closed during the afternoon and that the citizens of Rushville display the flag on homes, public buildings and business houses. The mayor also requests that business be suspended from 11:30 a. m. until 4 p. m. and that all citizens within the appropriate age attest their loyalty by enrolling for the 24 hour period.

Arrangements have been made for the schools to close at 11 a. m. so that the children may march to the court house in time for the preliminary exercises. They will then join in the procession to the park, where a dinner will be served cafeteria style, at 12:15.

Tents have been obtained to provide shelter for the dining tables. Everyone is urged to catch the spirit of the event and join in making the community dinner the success that previous dinners of this character have been.

The afternoon program will begin at two o'clock in the coliseum and the principal address will be delivered by Fred C. Gause of Indianapolis, judge of the Indiana supreme court and former judge of the Henry circuit court at Newcastle.

TO HONOR GEN. TRABUE

The Knights of Pythias lodge is planning a picnic at Memorial park for Sunday, September 21, and a meeting will be held Thursday night at the lodge room to perfect the arrangements. The picnic is to honor Samuel L. Trabue who was recently appointed major general, commanding the Uniform rank, United States and Canada.

Get the Big Value in the Fence Post Field

Steel fence posts are no longer all alike. The RED TOP Double strength Studed Tee has set a new standard. It is a stronger post of longer life, easier and cheaper to set and easier and cheaper to fasten fencing to.

Greater Strength—due to adding more metal in a reinforcing rib (see illustration) and also due to the fact that there isn't a single hole punched in the post either for staples or anchor plate. No rivets required to attach anchor plate. (See illustration.)

Firmer in Ground—the RED TOP Anchor Plate is heavier and stronger than ever.

Longer Service—the new aluminum metallic finish and solid post make it longer lived.

Better looking fences—the aluminum metallic finish gives the post a neat, trim appearance.

Easier, cheaper setting—One man can set 200 to 300 posts per day.

More Efficient Fence Fastening—RED TOP Handy Fasteners makes it possible for one man to attach fencing to posts. And fastener holds fencing tighter.

Come in and see this better post. Handle it. Inspect it. See how the new One Man Post Driver works. Don't buy a fence post until you do this.

Profits From Experience

The only course open for Rush county is to go back to the state fair next year with one or more exhibits and make an even greater effort than was made this year to carry off the honors.

Although Rush county was fifth in the educational exhibit this year, the showing was exceptionally good, when it is considered that we were showing against veterans who have been going back year after year with an exhibit, not simply with the desire of winning a prize, but for the advertising value of the display to the county.

Counties that have been showing at the fair for several years finished below Rush county, but they were not discouraged and they will be on the job again next year.

This is the only course open to Rush county. Not to try next year would be to lose all of the experience that was gained this year. It might also give some ground for the charge that Rush county people were quitters.

Ten thousand folders advertising Rush county were given out at the booth where the exhibit was on display. Two or three times as many people as received folders passed the Rush county booth and got the impression that Rush county produces more hogs than any other county. The favorable publicity which the county received was worth many times the effort and money expended in making the exhibit.

It's clearly up to Rush county to go back smiling next year, and with the experience gained this year, make a more determined effort to carry off the honors.

Community Success

Success has been defined by a well known authority as the progressive realization of a worthy ideal.

This definition is in terms of individuals, but it can be applied equally as well to a business or a community.

It lays down the fixed principle that success is impossible without the element of a worthy ideal.

Therefore, communities that expect to be successful must have a worthy goal to which the energies of the people are directed.

Rush county can expect to get ahead only by aspiring to achieve an aim that is within its reach, and by following a well defined program of action.

Nothing is impossible if the ideal is worthy and the people are "sold" on what they are attempting to do.

The residents of Rush county can make the county renowned the world around as a swine production center.

They can also make it a community of homes where people really live and where children can be reared to become useful and valuable citizens.

Poor Place For Editors

There is something about life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness in the United States that should have a special appeal for newspaper editors.

In Turkey there is a "prairie law" which permits you to shoot an editor when he annoys you.

A deputy coined the phrase when he calmly described his justification for the slaying of another deputy.

who wrote unkindly of him in his newspaper.

He refused to stand trial and said he would continue to shoot all editors who "write against him."

Now the Constantinople government is planning to pass a law for the protection of editors, and it will not be a "prairie law," if the power of the Turkish press is power more than in name only.

The Law Speaks

The law has spoken and Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb have been sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Robert Franks, 14 years old, in Chicago, May 21, and to ninety-nine years in prison for kidnapping the Franks boy.

The sentence was pronounced by Justice John R. Caverly after attorneys for the defense and state presented evidence in "aggravation and mitigation" of the punishment.

Not every one will agree with the punishment given the youthful slayers, but courts have been set up for passing on the guilt or innocence of violators of the criminal laws, and those who disagree will have to abide by the verdict.

Those who were so convinced that Leopold and Loeb should have been sentenced to die on the gallows would have been the last to have the blood of the two young men on their hands.

The judge considered the evidence and based his decision on his idea of how the best interests of society would be served. It was not affected by the passing whims or prejudices of the moment.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO TODAY

From Daily Republican
Friday, Sept. 10, 1909

Already the foot ball enthusiasts in the high school are beginning to figure out the dope on the team for this fall. The most enthusiastic supporter believes that it will far surpass the elevens of previous years and have great hopes for it. The team will feel the loss of several old men who graduated from the local high school last spring. Probably two young men never graduated from the local high school who made a better record in athletics than Ben Sparks and John Moffett. Especially will their loss be felt on the eleven. Scott Buell was also lost by graduation. But Buford Winship expects to turn out a good team that will compare favorably with former teams.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Great Britain took one step toward international disarmament when Representative Tom Connally of Marlin, Tex., arrived in England a few weeks back.

Tom, being Texas born and bred, wears, as an essential part of his wardrobe, a shooting-iron. Without a gun he feels only half clothed. A real Texan like Tom will go without collar or tie, even without a shirt, and feel more dressed up than he will without his gun.

Tom tried to do the decent thing, though, when he started for Europe as a member of the House select committee investigating Shipping Board affairs.

Just as he realized a Texas sombrero and boots would make him unduly conspicuous and weren't in good taste for a Congressional tour abroad, so he realized, too, that to wear the regulation Texas 45 six shooter was a trifle too much like totting heavy artillery.

Solely out of consideration for the proprietors, then, Tom buys himself a nice, genteel, but business-like 25 Colt automatic. And he sails away for Europe on the good ship George Washington.

BUT on arriving at Liverpool his majesty's customs representatives shake their heads.

Guns, they opine, even nice gentlemanly guns such as that belonging to the gentleman from Texas, may not be brought ashore. They not only are not in style but they're forbidden.

He can neither wear it ashore nor send it ashore with his luggage. The gentleman may land, but he must leave his gun behind.

After fevered but futile protests, Connally surrendered. He gave the gun to the ship's purser, with instructions to take it back to the states on the return trip.

Then, blushing, feeling almost like he was clad only in his B. V. D's, Texas Tom Connally, without his gun in a strange land, descended the gang plank to face the British taxi robbers.

If labor has a sense of humor, it must be getting one big smile out of the attention it is receiving just now from the presidential campaign.

The Labor Day pronouncement by Coolidge, Davis and La Follette were only an incident in the efforts of the presidential aspirants to lure the labor vote.

No one objective in the campaign of any of the candidates looms larger than that of capturing the vote of the nation's workers.

The effort to offset the endorsement of La Follette by the American Federation of Labor, and to make it appear that this endorsement does not carry the approval of the rank and file of labor voters, is recognized as the biggest single undertaking the Republicans and Democrats face as the campaign gets under way.

JUST how seriously this labor situation is regarded may be sensed from the steps taken to provide a pilgrimage of "labor leaders" to the White House on Labor Day.

President Coolidge received the delegation, headed by T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the Shipping Board, and delivered to them a speech setting forth his views on the condition of labor.

Next day Democratic leaders, seeking to block any advantage the Republicans hoped to achieve through the visit of labor representatives to the White House, charged that the "labor leaders" who listened to Coolidge were in large part, like O'Connor, who draws a $12,000 salary from the government, now in "government employ" in various capacities, and that their trip to Washington, instead of being a spontaneous pilgrimage to the Coolidge shrine, had been arranged for by party managers and financed through channels interested in Republican success.

Chairman Butler denies he authorized the "labor" expedition, but the Dems insist that it was, nevertheless, largely paid for out of the national committee's campaign chest.

What Class Is Your Car In?

A smooth running car that takes you there and back with no constant fear of a breakdown or unnecessary stops, is an asset and a pleasure and comfort to the owner.

A car that is constantly going wrong for lack of competent workmanship in repairing it or for other reasons, is a liability and a costly one. Bring your car to us, we'll put it in the asset class and keep it there. When we fix your car it stays fixed.

WORK ON LODGE HOME BEGINS

Addition to be Built and Remodeling Done by Odd Fellows

Active work has been started on the work of erecting an addition to the building at the corner of Morgan and Third streets, and the remodeling of the structure, which was recently purchased by the Odd Fellows lodge and will be converted into a lodge home.

A building will be constructed between the brick building occupied by the Home Restaurant and the office of Dr. D. D. VanOsdel, thus making a solid building facing in Morgan street from Third street south to the alley. The main entrance to the enlarged building will be in Morgan street, where the entrance to Dr. VanOsdel's office is now situated. The upper floors will be used as a lodge room, dining room, reception and regalia rooms. There will be a court to permit a rear exit for tenants on the first floor.

GRAND JURY BEGINS A PROBE OF HAZING

Blackford County Investigators Begin Inquiry Into Death of Boy Killed in Fight

NO INDICTMENT IS EXPECTED

(By United Press)

Hartford City, Ind., Sept. 10—The Blackford county grand jury today began a probe of the killing of Raymond Morris, 18 by William Duff 17, during a fight growing out of hazing of local high school freshmen.

Eight high school boys who participated in the hazing appeared before the grand jury this morning. Nearly 40 more were expected to be called.

The witnesses today included Raymond Stump, who refereed the fight that resulted in Morris' death.

Morris intervened in the hazing when a gang of school boys seized his younger brother and challenged Duff to a fight. Duff knocked Morris down during the struggle and Morris suffered a concussion of the brain which resulted in his death a few hours later.

It is generally believed that no indictment will be returned against Duff.

MOURN SON AS DEAD

Charlevoix, Mich., Sept. 10—Glad their son had escaped the gallows, but mourning him as dead, the parents of Richard Loeb remained in confinement today when news of their son's sentence to life imprisonment for the murder of Robert Franks reached them.

Charlevoix rallied to protest Albert H. Loeb, vice president of Sears-Roebuck and Company from an inquisitive world.

Loeb and his wife have been at their summer home here since early in the season and will not return to Chicago for several weeks, according to friends of the family.

Newspaper correspondents were the only persons to venture near the castle-like Loeb summer home when news of Justice John R. Caverly's "judge and jury" verdict reached Charlevoix. They were told Mr. and Mrs. Loeb would see no one.

JOYS OF MOTHERHOOD

Often Prevented by Female Trouble

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brings Joy to Homes by Removing Cause of Trouble

Brooklyn, N.Y.,—"I was working after I got married and the young lady who worked next to me asked me if I had any intentions of having a child. I told her I would be the happiest woman on earth if I could become a mother, but I always had terrible cramps, backaches and headaches. She then told me of a woman she knew who took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for the same troubles and it helped her greatly. I took about a half bottle and found that the following month I did not suffer any pain, so I kept on taking it. I have a wonderful baby boy six months old and he is as strong and fat as any one could wish a baby to be. I still take the Vegetable Compound regularly because I have looked fine all the time and felt fine and my mother told me that was the reason. I will be glad to have you publish my testimonial with my name and address."—Mrs. EDWARD WERBECK, 1824 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y.

These cases are similar to many others reported to us. It is well for women to carefully consider such statements and to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. It may bring great joy to your home.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 per cent of these replies are "Yes."

That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This goes to prove that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure-all—can and does do good work. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a medicine for women.

For sale by druggists everywhere.
